

The Future of Home Management

A unique, secure tool to help you manage your new home's data and documents in an increasingly digital world.

A Chimni logbook is a secure, online record of your home's key data and documentation, as well as a home management dashboard accessible from any digital device.

A Chimni digital property logbook provided to you by PM Property Lawyers is the first step to managing your home in this increasingly digital world.

Designed to work with the other online services and apps that are becoming part of the daily routine of running a home, a Chimni logbook builds a unique record that becomes part of the assets of the property.

By partnering with Chimni, PM Property Lawyers is setting out to help clients build new digital relationships with the companies that service their home.

Secure your documentation after your recent purchase and be prepared for the next time you sell.

Increase the value of your home by keeping detailed records of maintenance and building work.

Manage the apps, systems and services in your home from a single secure tool.

Why do you need a digital property logbook:

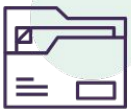

A Chimni logbook will manage the data and documentation from your recent home purchase delivering it to you categorised, filed and safely stored for next time

A Chimni logbook will help you run DIY projects and building work helping you store information on costs, materials used, council permissions, certificates and technical records.

A Chimni logbook can bring all your utility accounts together into a single account to create a dashboard and record 'smart' device account information in a single accessible way.

A Chimni logbook can store the user manuals, warranties and guarantees for all your appliances in a single place, and connect online with the brands built into your home.

Check out the Chimni website for more information on managing your home in the digital age:

www.chimni.com

